Ahoy!

June, 25th

Yo ho ho and a bottle of fun! We had 20,000 leagues of sea faring adventures this week! We reused our water bottles to create miniature aquariums and visited the jumbo Shedd Aquarium on Thursday. In science class we crafted boats and filled them with marbles to test buoyancy. In entertainment we had fun making animal shadow puppets and decorating Japanese Koi fish in art class. On Monday, the police safety demonstration was cancelled due to other emergencies, but the boys in blue will be here Tuesday. Today we had a surprise party for Mrs. Kim's birthday, it was oodles of fun and we enjoyed our very own homemade MMM CUPCAKES!!! The day ended with ice cream and a lacrosse clinic in the gym

A few reminders...Tuesday is water day, so please have your lil' buckaroo's swimwear under his/her clothes. Morning drop off is 9:00 am unless enrolled in before school class. We all love to run and play around when we have the chance, so if your daughter is in a dress or your son is wearing a kilt, please pack some shorts for them. Also let's leave all ipods, treasures, video games, and other pirate booty at HOME. NEXT WEEK: Monday is red, white, and blue day!! Thursday's field trip is to Garfield (mmm lasagna) Park for a kickball tournament!!

Have a fun weekend little dudes! Smell ya later!
