Howdy Parents and Campers!

Four square (and seven years ago...) has become the playground trend this week as well as funky beaded jewelry and rub-on tattoos! The campers had fun spying the world through blue-colored-lenses and made Thomas Edison proud by lighting up a bulb on their fancy little lighthouses. The police came on Tuesday to give us safety tips. When asked, "What do we say to strangers who offer candy?"... We all replied 'NO' but little Simon B. said "Thank You"...such sweet manners. Ms. Maggie busted out some nursery rhymes in entertainment for the upcoming performance. The campers saluted grand 'ol red, white, and blueberry pancakes in cooking class. In Art we papier mached and Yankee Doodled our initials. Thursday we played a great kickball tournament at Oz Park and snacked on yummy granola that we made in cooking class.

Next week there is NO SCHOOL MONDAY and the theme is animals, on Thursday we will gallop over to Lincoln Park Zoo and visit our animal friends.

We hope every body has a fun and safe celebration this weekend!

Peace Out,
SJB Staff
